Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

There was a huge haystack near a village. Several small animals had made their homes in it.

Among them was a tortoise, a cobra, a mongoose and a jackal.

One day as these four were enjoying an afternoon chat, the other residents of the haystack came running to them in a state of panic. 'Our haystack is on fire!' they screamed. 'A fire, is it?' said the tortoise, 'Please stay calm. I know a hundred thousand ways of dealing with a fire.' 'And I know only a thousand ways,' said the cobra, modestly. 'As for me, I know only a hundred,' said the mongoose, 'but they're all tried and tested methods.' 'And you, Sir,' said the residents to the jackal, 'how many do you know?'

'Only one,' said the jackal, sniffing the smoke—laden air. 'When the fire is this close, there's only one thing to do. That is to run!' Moreover, with that, he jumped from the haystack and ran away.

'Stupid creature,' the tortoise sneered. 'He ran away because he has not studied fire like I or my friends here have. Listen to the first method of escaping a fire ... '

However, he never got beyond that. A tongue of flame leapt out from the centre of the haystack and consumed him and his two knowledgeable friends. The other animals leapt from the haystack as they had seen the stupid jackal do and ran for their lives.
