Nutty and the Winters

One autumn morning, a little squirrel named Nutty woke up early to gather acorns. The trees in the forest were shedding their leaves, and Nutty knew that winter was not far.

As Nutty climbed one of the oak trees, a sudden gust of wind blew. Its force was too hard to bear for the branches as they swayed to and fro. The branch he was standing on snapped, and Nutty fell to the ground. For a moment, he felt dizzy, but Nutty was brave. He quickly got up and looked around. His small paws were aching, but his determination was strong.

Without giving up, Nutty climbed another tree. This time, he was more careful. As he reached higher branches, he found the biggest acorn he had ever seen! It was shiny and golden, a perfect treasure for the cold days ahead.

Nutty carefully carried the heavy acorn back to his home—a small hole in a big tree trunk. When winter came, Nutty had enough food to keep him full through the snowy months. He felt proud of himself, knowing that hard work and bravery had paid off.

28. Why do you think Nutty didn't give up after falling from the tree?

- (A) He wanted to impress the other animals in the forest.
- (B) He was scared to go back to his home without acorns.
- (C) He knew that winter was coming and he needed food to survive.
- (D) He thought it was fun to climb trees and didn't mind falling.

29. What does the word 'determination' mean in the passage?

- | | |
|---------------|----------------|
| (A) Happiness | (B) Surprise |
| (C) Doubt | (D) Will power |

30. How did Nutty feel after he managed to find the big acorn?

- (A) He felt tired and frustrated.
- (B) He felt proud of his hard work and bravery.
- (C) He felt sad because he didn't find many acorns.
- (D) He felt angry because he fell from the tree.
